Autodesk Education Expert Points Program Terms

Last updated: October 6th, 2014 (version 11)

The Autodesk Education Expert Points Program ("Points Program") allows Autodesk Education Experts to record the activities they conduct online and on campus and at other events and programs in support of the Autodesk mission. The more proactive you are, the more points you will collect, which in turn leads to increased recognition in the Education Expert Network and additional benefits and rewards. You should review the Autodesk Education Expert Special Terms for additional terms that apply the Points Program.

Points will be awarded to Education Expert members for the activities described in these Points Program Terms. These activities are updated from time to time so you should check the Points Program Terms frequently for updates.

These activities and their corresponding points will be split into two main categories:

- Automatic Points: Points that are awarded automatically as you actively participate in the Autodesk Education Experts Network forums, run a blog, update your profile, etc.
- Manual Points: Points that you receive by manually reporting activities you have conducted on campus or through other systems. You record these points through "submit your tasks". (http://www.studentexpert.net/en/points/submit-your-tasks)

Autodesk reserves the right to verify that manually reported activities have been completed before points are awarded. We will leverage external systems and tools, or require that the Education Expert submit a written report, certificate or other verification of the conducted activity. The activities table below includes detailed instructions. It typically takes up to five (5) working days from when points are reported before they become visible in your profile, but it could take longer, especially if additional verification of activities is required.

You will be able to record activities from the point of time you originally registered a profile on the Experts Network.

Autodesk will recognize any activities that were conducted without any time limit. Competitions will be deleted from the points 6 month after the end of the competition.

Autodesk Education Expert points will be linked to your membership level and determine access to exclusive benefits according to the following structure.

	Registered Member of the Education Experts Network	Autodesk Education Expert Standard membership	Autodesk Education Expert Premium membership
Requirements	Register a profile	Collect more than 750 points	Collect more than 4000 points
Benefits	Access to the Autodesk Education Experts Network news, forums, groups, events and information	Use of Student Expert Logo Free Autodesk Developer Network membership Listing on Education Expert Points Leaderboard Standard benefits from Autodesk and partners that may be provided from time to time	Candidates for the Spotlight section Eligibility to be invited to exclusive Autodesk events, technical pilot/beta projects and training workshops Eligibility to be nominated as a candidate for the Autodesk Expert Elite program Premium benefits from Autodesk and partners that may be provided from time to time

You can read more about the benefits and rewards provided as part of the Autodesk Education Expert program on the Autodesk Education Expert Network. Once you have registered sufficient points to reach Education Expert Standard membership you will receive an email with further instructions.

Your points and membership status will be recorded in your Expert Network profile. There you will also see your current ranking compared to your peers.

Recognized Education Expert Activities and Corresponding Points

The following table lists all activities that Education Experts can participate in and report to collect membership points. The table also includes instructions on how Education experts can claim these points. This list will be updated from time to time by Autodesk. You will be eligible to receive the points for the activities listed (i) on of the date you participate in the activity if Automatic Points are granted or (ii) on of the date that you submit to Autodesk all materials required to receive Manual Points.

Manual inputs are done through the Experts Network portal in the "submit your tasks" tool. You will be asked to choose the category and then the detailed activity through drop down lists. In some cases you will need to upload a report, certificate and/or a photo before you can claim your points. Autodesk shall determine in its sole discretion if Education Experts have met applicable criteria to receive points.
